Public Comment:

Laurel Paget-Seekins commented on the Tempo line and raised concerns about AC Transit's collaboration with the Metropolitan Transportation Commission to expand the number of locations where riders can add funds to their Clipper cards.

Adina Levin spoke about the Clipper 2 system and emphasized the importance of making fare payment more accessible for low-income individuals. Levin also expressed agreement with Laurel Paget-Seekins on the need for more locations to load Clipper cards.

Anthony Campana, Representing the East Bay Transit Riders Union, voiced opposition to the proposal limiting local transfers to a single use within a two-hour window and suggested allowing multiple transfers within that period, which would not have a negative economic impact.

Alita Dupree expressed support for the Clipper 2 system and shared optimism about its potential. Dupree highlighted the value of implementing weekly and monthly fare accumulation options and stated that "transit should be complimentary, not competitive."
